ANZAC DAY

You are not forgotten
In our memories, in our hearts

Please join us and create a piece of art to share with our veterans and their loved ones.

As we are unable to attend any ANZAC Day services this year, we will conduct our own remembrance services at home and online.

We now have the ability to share far and wide online, and although it is not the same as in person, it is still very valuable to all communities, especially during this time when lots of us are apart from our extended family and friends.

There is great meaning in this exercise and while some little children may not understand exactly what this day signifies, they will begin to and with time their understanding will deepen.

It provides us with an opportunity to bond and strengthen our intergenerational relationships. Stories are shared and passed down. Our loved ones honored.

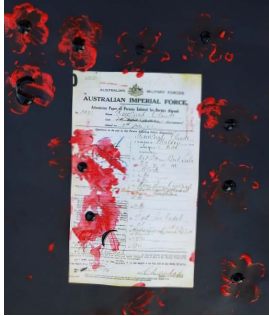

What to do:

1. Draw pictures, make cards, write personal notes, paint, cut and paste, make play dough shapes, sculpture, or any other art form that allows you to express your thanks and love to our ANZACs.

2. Take a photo of your artwork that can be printed and displayed, and if you are happy to do so, another photo with you child holding their art.

3. Share your creations with us on Instagram or Facebook, so we can come together and create a community ANZAC service online.

Playgroup

Time to get creating!

ANZAC DAY

You are not forgotten
In our memories, in our hearts

There are many lovely ANZAC crafts, have a go at the following:

8 ANZAC Day craft and food ideas by Bright Star Kids

11 simple poppy crafts by Laughing Kids Learn

ANZAC Day crafts by DLTK's Growing Together

"Harrison had fun painting poppies for great great great uncle Claude."

Joanne Tarasuik

Family is so important to us at playgroup and we would love to honor our ANZACS and thank families for their contribution. Join us online and share your thanks and love. Lest we forget.

Playgroup

Activity photos and idea contributed by Dr Joanne Tarasuick, Playgroup Victoria